I. Document collections

The distribution of Decisions under “Document categories” is now more specific: you can choose between “Grand Chamber”, “Chamber”, “Committee”, “Commission” and “Screening Panel”.

You can find the definition of each document category by hovering the cursor over the question mark  .

For example, Grand Chamber judgments are defined as follows:

II. Basic search

Use this field to search in one or more document collections.

A. Basic search box

You can also open the Simple Boolean Search screen by clicking on the arrow:

The “Boolean” search box now contains “Near these words”.

- Near these words corresponds to the Boolean operator NEAR. NEAR enables you to find documents where the search terms are close to each other. If you enter police violence in this field, the system will search for police NEAR violence.

B. Spelling suggestions

Spelling suggestions have been improved when it comes to case titles. If you spell a case title incorrectly your search will not return any documents. A message is then displayed suggesting the use of different or more general search terms. Similarly spelt words, if any, will also be suggested. You can then search for that word simply by clicking on it.

Example:

C. Previewing results

The link Preferences can be found under the basic search field.

When you click here you open a window that allows you to preview the results by checking the box.

If you have enabled the "result list preview" and you search for the word police, it will be highlighted under the case titles in a selection of sentences taken from the document in question.

Search bar with 'police' and a 'SEARCH' button.

1. Multiple searches, Boolean operators AND/OR

All filters except for Language, Importance and Date enable you to use the Boolean operators AND and OR so you can search under more than one category for the same filter.

By default the Boolean operator is OR. You can select AND by clicking on the appropriate button (at the top of the filter window which appears when you click on "more").

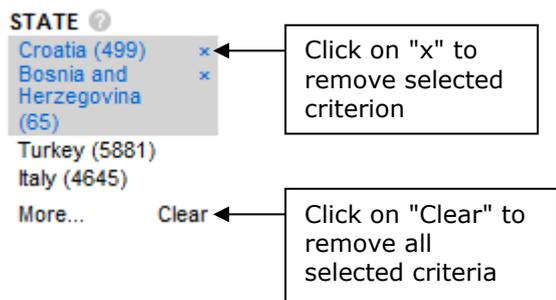

If you set the logic to AND, the system will remember your choice and it will be used by default the next time you use this filter.

- The Boolean operator OR enables you to find cases in either of the selected categories.
For example, if you search for Bosnia and Herzegovina OR Croatia, your result list will show all cases where the respondent State is either Bosnia and Herzegovina or Croatia.
- The Boolean operator AND enables you to find cases corresponding to all selected categories put together.
For example, if you search for Bosnia and Herzegovina AND Croatia, your result list will show all cases where both Bosnia and Herzegovina and Croatia are respondent States, such as Ališić and Others v. Bosnia and Herzegovina, Croatia, Serbia, Slovenia and "the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia".

The Boolean operator applied remains visible in the filter search window. On the main page, the criteria selected are displayed under the corresponding filter with grey highlighting. You can remove each one by clicking on a cross. You can also remove all the criteria applied for a given filter by clicking on "Clear".

In the example illustrated below, where Bosnia and Herzegovina AND Croatia have been selected in the "State" filter, you can remove one or both of these States:

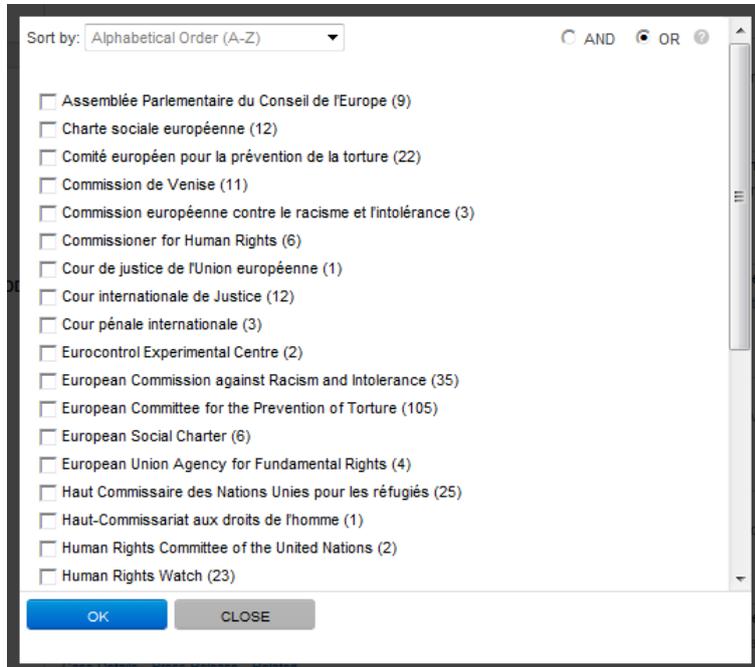

If you add, for example, Turkey as a criterion under the "State" filter, by clicking on Turkey, the Boolean operator previously selected will continue to be applied.

2. Organisations

The list of organisations has been updated. It includes a set of organisations whose work is relevant to the activities of the European Court of Human Rights and the Council of Europe.

IV. Result list

In the illustrations below a search has been made for "interprète" in Grand Chamber and Chamber judgments, importance level 1. The results are sorted by date, from the newest to the oldest. The result list preview is enabled.

B. Displaying documents

1. Displaying a document in HTML format

Click on the case title to view the document.

A full viewing pane then opens with the document.

New functions are available:

a. Position of text in result list

The figures between brackets before the case title shows the position of the document in the result list.

In the example (3 of 465) AFFAIRE DE SOUZA RIBEIRO c. FRANCE, the case De Souza Ribeiro v. France is the third out of 465 in the result list.

b. Number of hits

Terms (0 of 1) displays the number of hits inside a given document. Depending on the search term (if any), the number may change depending on whether you select "Highlight Exact term only" (see below for highlighting of terms).

Click on the green arrow to display the hits.

c. Highlighting of terms

The visibility of highlighted terms has been optimised. The active hit interprète (obtained after clicking on the green arrow) is not highlighted in the same colour as the inactive hits interprète (other instances of same word in document).

With the option  Highlight Exact term only you can highlight only the exact term that you have searched for, if any. For example, if you search for "interprète", only that word will be highlighted and not the similar words such as s'interpréter, where "interprète" is highlighted.

d. Application number hyperlinks

Each application number is automatically given a hyperlink 30696/09, allowing you to move directly to the case in question. A new tab will be opened with the list of all related documents.

Hyperlinks are associated with application numbers for all Strasbourg cases cited in the document. However, as the case-law of the "old" Court before 1998 is cited without an application number – for example, Marckx v. Belgium (13 June 1979, Series A no 31) – there are no hyperlinks for such cases.

M.S.S. c. Belgique et Grèce [GC], n° 30696/09, §§ 286–287, CEDH 2011

2. View maximised/minimised

The window opens as a maximised view.

To minimise or maximise the view, click on .

C. Displaying case details

In the "Case details" tab the application numbers for the cases cited in the Strasbourg case-law list appear as hyperlinks, allowing you to move directly to the case-law cited: by clicking on the link you will display a list of all the results related to the particular application number.
